

I am an Indiana citizen who has benefitted from Indiana's Privacy Act. I used to received an average of four calls a day of unwanted solicators. These included those companies I had previously done business with and did not desire doing business with again. It is my right to maintain a quiet household without disturbances from companies soliciting my business. If I am in need of services, I will seek them myself. I am asking that you do not weaken Indiana's Privacy Act. Debra R. Brown
